Asbestos Awareness Policy for Farncombe Smith 1990 LTD T/A Farncombe Construction

To all Employees.

Relevant to the Control of Asbestos Regulations 2006, Farncombe Smith 1990 Ltd are required by law to inform all its employees and any contractors under a sub contract agreement the procedures to be adhered to regarding Asbestos Containing Materials (ACM's)
Asbestos was banned in the UK in 1999.

Farncombe Construction trains all of its employees annually to recognise and be aware of the different types of asbestos through "Asbestos Awareness" training. New Employees will be enrolled on the training following their probation period.

Farncombe Smith 1990 Ltd are not licenced to handle or remove Asbestos.

IF YOU DISCOVER ASBESTOS OR YOU SUSPECT IT MAY BE AN ACM YOU MUST

- Stop work immediately, inform your supervisor & site management
- Segregate the area without risk to yourself, barriers, tapes etc.
- Inform others on site that could be liable to go into the suspected area.
- Do not handle the material
- Do not return to the area until you have received written confirmation that the ACM has been removed or that it is not an ACM and therefore not a hazard to health
- Comply with site management regarding their company procedures.
- If you think that you may have come into contact with Asbestos, inform your supervisor, seek medical advice and enter the information into the Accident Book

DO NOT PUT YOURSELF OR OTHERS AT RISK.
IF YOU ARE UNSURE, SEEK ADVICE.
